PERKINS TRIED A SECOND TIME

Evidence Same as That in First
Trial When Jury Disagreed Over
Evidence of "Bootlegging."

GEORGE W. YOUNG AS JUDGE

Just Before Case Starts Counsel For Perkins Demands Change of Judge From Mayor.

The case against Greeley Perkins, charged with "bootlegging," was tried for the second time this afternoon in police court. The case was heard by a jury and Special Judge George W. Young. Perkins was represented by Hall and Campbell and just before the case started a motion was filed asking for a change of judge. Mayor Bebout appointed George W. Young as special judge.

The evidence in the case was similar to the first trial when the jury disagreed. The case was not expected to reach the jury before four o'clock this afternoon. The prosecuting witness Alexander West, of Gwynneville, testified that Perkins approaching him on the morning of December 24 and offered to get some whiskey if West would give him the money. West stated that he gave him a dollar and that in a short time Perkins returned with two half-pint bottles of whiskey and fifty cents in change.

The prosecution, which was represented by Prosecutor Stevens, had a time getting West to say just what it was Perkins gave him. He finally admitted that it was whiskey, but that it was a very poor grade. Chief Rosencrance stated that he saw West hand Perkins some money and that later he saw Perkins hand West the two bottles and that the two men took a drink. This was in the rear of the August Roth pool room in East First street.

Chief Rosencrance was unable to say how much money passed between the men as he could not tell the amount from where he was located. The defense maintained that Perkins acted as the agent for West and that there was no actual sale. If there was any sale, it was maintained that it occurred between Perkins and the person he purchased the booze from. In the trial of Frank Butts it was brought out that Perkins bought the whiskey of him.

The jury was composed of the following men: O. E. Humes, Berry Osborn, Charles Hugo, John Boyd, F. E. Wolcott, H. M. Cowing, Charles Hall, Frank Abercrombie, Michael McDonald, E. A. Frazee, James Bennett, Charles Hinkle.

(By United Press.)

Terre Haute, Ind., Jan. 6.—Judge Redman of the circuit court announced today that he had ordered a reduction of the salary of Probate Commissioner Fortune from $3,600 to $2,400 and that he would soon take over all the work of probate judge himself. This means that Fortune will soon be without a salaried position. While sitting as judge of circuit court Fortune appointed P. O. Colliver as judge pro tem. Colliver then appointed Fortune probate commissioner and raised the salary $1,200 a year.

MILROY GENERAL STORE IS ENTERED

Spillman and Meek Discover Robbery
This Morning on Opening
But Loss is Not Determined.

CASH DRAWER IS UNTOUCHED

The general store of Spillman and Meek in Milroy was entered last night, but late today it was impossible to tell the extent of the robbery. An invoice was being taken in the hopes of learning what was taken and the value. The glass in the side door of the store was smashed and entrance was gained in this manner.

The robbery is supposed to have occurred after midnight but was not discovered until this morning when the store was opened for business. Some tobacco and other small articles were missed but the money drawer was not touched. The cash register contained several dollars in change but this was not bothered. Sheriff Cavitt was called but there is no clue to the robbery and he did not go to Milroy.

TWO ECLIPSES MARKED UP FOR '15

Neither Will be Visible to the United States, According to Latest
Model Almanac

EASTER FALLS ON APRIL 4

Two eclipses of the sun in 1915 and neither visible to the United States—this is the disappointing feature of the almanac for this year.

There will be no eclipse of the sun. Eclipses each year range from two to seven. The new year has the minimum number of eclipses, and when the number is only two both must be of the sun. The world will not see the maximum total number of eclipses until 1917, when there will be seven, five of the sun and two of the moon.

The first eclipse this year will occur February 14, and will be visible in Africa and in the Indian ocean. The second will occur August 10-11, and will be visible in Asia and on the Pacific ocean.

Easter this year will fall on April 4, Ash Wednesday being February 17.

CITY NOT LIKELY TO DO THE OILING

Method of Keeping Dust Down Last Year Suggested at Council Meeting Tuesday Night.

SOME SENTIMENT AGAINST IT

Report of Superintendent Mahin
Shows City Plant Was Operated
For $2,000 Less Than in 1913.

The city is not likely to go into the district oiling business this year. From the sentiment expressed at the regular meeting of the city council last night if there is any oiling done the coming spring it will be done individually. It was suggested to the council that if the city planned to follow last year's method that now was the time to get ready. Councilman Brann stated openly that he would oppose any measure providing for the city to do the oiling as was done last year.

Councilman Brann said the whole job was not worth all the knocking he received and for his part the bars would be thrown down and anyone that wanted to oil could go ahead. Under the plan last year the city oiled every unpaved street and the costs were assessed against the abutting property owners. In order to remonstrate the entire street was taken into consideration and the extra work is not worth the trouble it is alleged. The city treasurer still has accounts out for street oiling. The stand of Councilman Brann will likely be followed by others and it is probable if there is any oiling the city will have no part in it.

There was nothing of great importance done at the council meeting. Most of the time was taken up with the report of the city treasurer on the amount of money collected and the amounts due on several sidewalk improvements. Some have paid the assessments and others have not. In many instances waivers have not been signed and all the money has not been paid in. The contractor, A. R. Herkless, wants the city to pay him all the money on the contract price when as a matter of fact the city has not collected all the money with which to pay.

Herkless has threatened to sue the city. In the past the contractor has been paid regardless of whether the money has been collected but the city holds this is wrong and at the next meeting bonds will be issued for the balance due on the improvements and Herkless will be given the money as soon as the bonds are paid.

Repairs amounting to about $180 will be made at the water and light plant. The pumps are all in good order with the exception of the air compressor. This is in bad shape, according to Superintendent Mahin. The pump has been in operation for the past eighteen years and will be repaired at this time rather than in the summer months when it is badly needed. The water and light committee was given power to go ahead with the repairs. Some work will also have to be done on the boilers.

The city purchased 500 feet of fire hose. A representative of the Eureka Fire Hose company of New York was present and the order was placed with him. This is the company that the city has purchased its hose from for many years. The hose bought last night is the same as that purchased one year ago, costing ninety cents a foot. Fire Chief Easley told the council that this additional hose would put the fire department in a better position.

HOLDS ITS FIRST MEETING OF 1915

New Library Board Meets Tuesday
Night and Reorganizes, Electing
J. H. Scholl President.

TWO NEW MEMBERS ON BOARD

Report of Librarian Shows 1,332
Volumes Loaned in December—
145 New Books Received.

The first meeting of the year for the library board since two vacancies have been filled was held in the library in the court house last night. It was the regular monthly meeting. The report of the librarian, Miss Mary Sleeth, was heard, showing that 1,332 volumes were loaned during the month of December, making a daily average of fifty-two. The report also revealed that there are now 2,715 books in the library.

The board reorganized by electing J. H. Scholl, president; Ernest B. Thomas vice-president and Charles Bales, secretary and treasurer. The last two named are new members of the board. They have been appointed since the first of the year by Judge Will M. Sparks to fill the vacancies caused by the resignations of Judge Sparks and Mrs. Thomas McWhinney, who has moved to Indianapolis. Other members of the board are Mrs. John F. Moses, Mrs. Wallace Morgan, Mrs. A. L. Gary and Wilbur Stiers.

One hundred and forty-five new volumes for the library have just been received and Miss Sleeth is now busily engaging cataloging them. This is a part of an order for more than two hundred new books recently made. There is very little fiction in the order just received, the bulk of the order consisting of classified works.

In the shipment just received a number of children's books supplementing what the library already has. Particular attention has been paid to works for children. Prominent among those just arriving are a number of books for children on how to make and do things. They are held to be invaluable to the child who has ideas about accomplishing things.

"Children's Library of Work and Play" is one volume that is held to be especially attractive. Several volumes in the series, "Children's Lives of Great Men," were received in the new order. Some of this series are already in the library. An attractive list of fairy stories have already been received.

A book that is attracting considerable attention just now, Gertrude Atherton's "History of California," is among the new arrivals at the library. Another that is expected to finger-mark very early in its career in the Rushville library is Richard Burton's "How to See a Play."

COMPROMISE IS REACHED

Sudden Termination of Case Makes it Quiet in Court.

It was rather quiet in the circuit court again today. Judge Sparks was to have heard the receivership suit of Lindley M. Moore against Paul Cooper, but the case did not come to trial because a compromise was reached. The suit was for an accounting and a dissolution of partnership. The receivership was the question to have been decided this morning. The firm has been doing an insurance business in Carthage.

PRISONERS NUMBER 50,000

(By United Press.)

Petrograd, Jan. 6.—The positive declaration that the entire Turkish campaign in the Caucasus had failed was made today in an official report. The entire Turkish army is in disgraceful retreat, the troops abandoning equipment and ammunition, and in a number of instances even their regimental colors.

All of the reports emphasize the extent of the Russian victory. It is declared that already the prisoners number more than 50,000 men and that a number of divisions must now surrender are exterminated.

NOT TO DO IT THIS YEAR PUBLICALLY

Tom Taggart Says he Will Not Advise Legislature as he Did at Session of 1913.

SAYS IT WILL BE ECONOMICAL

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Jan. 6.—National Committeeman Thos Taggart will not publicly advise the legislature as he did two years ago. He indicated this today when he said: "It would not be proper for me or anyone else to say now should be done." In 1913 Mr. Taggart willingly talked of what legislation he thought should be passed.

"The members of the legislature will get together and decide what should be passed. It seems that it will be broad-gauged economical session," he said.

Mr. Taggart said he had not looked into the matter of the proposed Stotesenbergs amendments which has been attacked by the Woman's Franchise League.

Concerning salaries he said: "It is believed that an officer should work for the salary which he knew the office paid when he accepted the office."

Washington, Jan. 6.—President Wilson today promised Senator Kern to attend a reception at the Indiana Democratic club honoring the president's speech at Indianapolis, Friday.

ONE LIFE IS LOST IN SUBWAY TIE-UP

Five Hundred Passengers Rescued
From Death Today Following
Explosion and Fire.

WORST IN HISTORY OF CITY

Long Trains Filled to Point of Suffocation and Many Persons
Are Rendered Unconscious.

(By United Press.)

New York, Jan. 6.—At 11:30 Fire Chief Kenton, who had been in the subway at 59th street where 500 persons were rescued from death following an explosion and fire, said that he did not believe there was anyone left in the stalled trains. He said that the fire was then out and that only one was dead. One unidentified woman who died at the Policlinic hospital, the chief said, would probably be the only fatality in the worst transportation tie-up in the history of New York.

Thousands of lives were endangered and it was at first feared some lives would be sacrificed in the worst disaster in the history of New York's subway. For hours the entire system was stalled. Long trains filled to the point of suffocation with passengers were tied up between stations.

On a part of the line they were in total darkness. On the second division between 96th street and 14th many persons were rendered unconscious from smoke and as a result of a blow-out and subsequent fire at 53rd street.

Three alarms of fire brought all of the available apparatus to 53rd street where the situation was worst. A grating was jammed loose and there was a train there filled with passengers unconscious from smoke. The situation in the tubes was desperate. The firemen could work only in five-minute relays.

Spinal Column, Where the Cause of Disease is Located

CHIROPRACTIC

(KI-RO-PRAC-TIC)

The scientific method of removing the cause of all disease by adjusting to the normal position the misplaced (subluxated) vertebrae of the spinal column. The subluxated vertebra cause pressure on the Great Trunk Nerves which emanate between them, thus shutting off the transmission of vital current from the brain to some organ or part of the body to which they lead, leaving it in a weakened condition, subject to disease, causing over 95 per cent of all sickness and suffering known to mankind. Chiropractic adjustments remove the pressure (the cause of disease), restores the vital energy and health returns. I use the hands only. I ask no questions; simply analyze the spine and tell you every place you are affected.

SOLDIERS ARE ON SPEAKING TERMS

French and German Trenches so Close in Argonne Region That Men Are Getting Acquainted.

FIGHTING SYSTEMATIZED

German Soldier Actually Goes Over to French Trench and Gets Some Cigars Offered Him.

BY WILLIAM PHILLIP SIMS.
(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

With the French Army at the Front, Nov. 29.—(By Mail to New York)—At places, here in the Argonne, the French and German trenches are so close together that in the weeks the two armies have been thus face to face, the soldiers are, after a fashion, personally acquainted with each other.

Here, the fighting has become systematized and follows a routine. At certain sections of the trenches the French and Germans have reached an agreement that before a certain hour in the morning there is to be no killing; in the opposing trenches the men are to be allowed to wash up and make their toilet for the day. After the gong taps, figuratively speaking, and any head showing above the level of the ground gets promptly taken off.

Rock battles often take place between the opposing sides. The men grow tired of having nothing to shoot at for hours at a time in order to amuse themselves they bombard each other without the thrower exposing his person to the bullets of the enemy.

The old fashioned hand grenades have come back into style with this close trench through the heavy fogs now of almost daily occurrence in this region, and let go into the midst of a crowd of men.

At times the enemies, however, become almost friendly.

"Say, over there!" a German shouted from his trench. "Have you guys got anything to smoke?"

"Sure!" the chorus came back from the French. "Have you?"

"Not a crumb!"

"To bad. You ought to write the Kaiser."

"Gimme the makin'."

"Come and get 'em."

A giant of a young fellow stuck his head and shoulders above the ground, placed his hands on the edge of the trench and vaulted out on the side towards the French. A month-old flaxon beard stood out about a very round face. Mud covered his formerly grayish-bluish, greenish uniform. A little round, visorless fatigue cap made him look like a young Santa Claus. Stooping, he ran swiftly across the highway which separated the trenches at this point, and, falling flat on his stomach, peered down into the enemy's trench.

"Where's them cigars?" He demanded.

"Here they are," a Frenchman replied. "You deserve them! Six, and they're worth a louis apiece."

"Merci!" said the German as he scurried back to his burrow.

"Say!" this same German shouted between puffs "These cigars are great. Real imported hemp!"

A rock the size of a man's fist was the reply to this sally.

"Hey, you Frenchers," the German kept on, "you're a pretty decent lot. I'm going to give you a present, too. Will you shoot me if I come over again?"

"We will that!"—after what you said about the cigars."

Once more the lumbering giant caputulated out of his trench and ran low over to the French, dropping on his stomach as before. In his hand was an object, a dark green, one, with tin foil around the neck and the words "Gout American," on a slip of paper across the sloping shoulder. It was a bottle of champagne, swiped while the Germans were in Rheims.

"Here's your health, fellows," the German said. "Drink heartily! And back he ran.

"Hey!" the Frenchmen shouted laughing. "You've got the nerve of a burglar! You are giving us back our own campaign!"

"Oh, that's all right," the German replied, "your cigars were made in Germany! I recognize the stench!"

Later in the day the German was killed and the news was shouted across the road. He would keep sticking his head above the trench during business hours. But in the night a wreath of wild flowers, gathered by the Frenchmen from heaven knows where, and at no one knows what risks, fell into the trench where he was wont to have his place.

All is not cutting and slashing and shooting and gore; the spice of good humor and the milk of human kindness often, in this fighting, lessens the sting of hatred between the races and of which one hears so much.

Easy to Forgive.

A business man made an appointment with a friend a few days ago and when the time rolled around he forgot the matter entirely.

The incident worried him so much that he dreaded to meet the friend and for several days tried to keep out of the latter's way.

Finally, however, the inevitable happened, and the two met face to face in the lobby of a downtown club.

Before the business man could voice his explanation the friend extended his hand and began to apologize humbly:

"I must beg your pardon, old chap, but really I quite forgot about our engagement the other day, and I am indeed very sorry to have disappointed you."

When he fully recovered from the shock the business man exclaimed, with a magnanimous wave of his right hand:

"Don't worry, old man; even the best of us will sometimes forget."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Cure For Nosebleed.

I sometimes read in the daily papers of death caused by bleeding at the nose. Here is a cure discovered by me and not known or practiced by any physician. I am an old shipmaster. have tried it in a number of cases and never knew it to fail. It is very simple. Any one can perform the operation.

Place the patient in a sitting position or propped up in bed, and with the forefinger press gently in the hollow of the throat just above the breast bone, and the bleeding will gradually cease.

To avoid bleeding at the nose, especially in the case of children, get a large bead the size of a large marble, put it on a silk or woolen string and tie it around the neck so that the bead hangs in the hollow of the throat and wear it night and day.—New York Sun.

A Remarkable Stork.

The whale billed stork is found on a lake south of the White Nile. The lake has never been mapped and is bordered by extensive swamps. It is hard to tell where swamp ends and lake begins, for most of the water surface is covered with a dense mat of tangled vegetation. On this mat the whale billed stork builds its nest. It is a very rare bird and is known to the Arabs as the Father of the Shoe, because of its huge shoe shaped bill. It is of solitary habits, blackish gray in color, with wide spreading long toes feet adapted for standing on the quaking surface of a floating field of vegetation. Its habits are sluggish, and it lives mainly on fish. Colonel Roosevelt describes it as "hunting sedately in muddy shallows or standing motionless for hours, surrounded by reed beds or by long reaches of treacherous ooze."

One Way of "Beating the Bounds."

The Cossack can do much in war, but in peace time he is not so handy. Then he is either a fisherman or a farmer, but he knows little about land surveying and less still about land registration. When disputes arise there is a method of settling them. When the boundary has been settled it is registered not upon parchment, but upon boys' backs. All the boys are collected and driven like sheep along the newly surveyed boundary. The procession halts at each landmark, a certain number of boys are chosen, thoroughly whipped and then sent home. This is done in the belief that an unmerited whipping would always remain in the memory—a truly wonderful method of "beating the bounds."—London Chronicle.

STOP BUYING EXPENSIVE COUGH REMEDIES

Make the Best of Home

Money spent for the old-style, ready-made cough syrups in bottles holding only 2 to 2½ ounces is very largely wasted, because most of them are composed principally of sugar and water. Yet you have to pay the same price as if it was all medicine. Stop wasting this money. You can make a better cough medicine at home at one-fifth the cost. Merely go to the drug store named below and ask for 2 ounces (50c worth) of Schiffmann's Concentrated Expectant. Mix this with one pint of granulated sugar and one-half pint of boiling water, which makes a full pint (16 ounces). This new, simple, pleasant remedy is guaranteed to relieve the worst cough or cold. Also excellent for Bronchial Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup, Hoarseness and Whooping Cough. One bottle will make enough home-made cough medicine to probably last the whole family the entire winter. Children like it, it is so pleasant to take and it positively contains no chloroform, opium, morphine or other narcotics, as do most cough mixtures. Keep it on hand in case of emergency and stop each cough before it gets a firm hold. This store has been authorized to return the money in every single case where it does not give perfect satisfaction, or is not found the best remedy ever used. TO BE OF VALUE TO CORNGROWER

Program for Annual Session in Connection With Purdue Farmers Short Course is Announced

T. A. COLEMAN TO TAKE PART

Former Rushville Man Will Lead Round Table On “Cost of Producing Corn.”

Indiana corn growers will discuss problems of immediate interest and importance at the annual meeting January 13, 1915, to be held at Purdue University in connection with the Farmers’ Short Course.

Prof. R. A. Moore, head of the Crops Department of the University of Wisconsin, and who has done pioneer work in the organizing and promoting of county grain growing associations will tell Indiana farmers how to improve their crops and how to produce and market high class seed. This is a most important subject since Indiana farmers can realize much higher returns on their seed grain through organizations.

The soils of Indiana are responding to lime. Prof. McCall of Ohio State University will discuss the “Use of Lime in Soil Improvement Work.”

It is also found that in many sections of the state limestone can be ground to advantage and thus save freight and hauling. The use of the small limestone grinder will be presented by Prof. McCall. This should be of direct interest and value.

A round table on the subject, “Cost of Producing Corn,” led by T. A. Coleman and W. L. Elser, will bring out an interesting discussion. Some interesting data has been gathered which will appeal to every corn grower.

Another feature of the program will be the awarding of medals to men who have grown 100 bushels of corn to the acre. Pres. W. E. Stone of Purdue University will present these and make an address before the association.

The program prepared is strong and should prove helpful to corn growers. It is expected that the attendance will exceed that of any previous year.

Treat Children’s Colds Externally

Don’t dose delicate little stomachs with harmful internal medicines. Vick’s “Vap-O-Rub” Croup and Pneumonia Salve is applied externally over the throat and chest. The body heat releases soothing antiseptic vapors that are inhaled all night long, loosening the tough phlegm and opening up the air passages. For all inflammation of the air passages from head colds and catarrh, down to bronchitis and incipient pneumonia, Vick’s is quicker than internal medicines. Fake Prosperity

Some time ago mention was made of the fake prosperity stories which had been sent from some Indiana cities and Kokomo was on the list. Since then, it will be recalled, several wild stories about the great number of idle men which were returning to employment have been printed under a Kokomo date line.

But the Kokomo Tribune, a reliable daily newspaper which is published in Kokomo, tells an altogether different story. The Tribune proves that the fake brand of prosperity is still going on in Kokomo and that conditions are no better than they were, although it is sincerely hoped by the Tribune that they will brighten up a bit.

In the last dispatch to the Indianapolis Star the correspondent used the name of the Kokomo Chamber of Commerce without authority to do so, which has brought the commercial organization no end of annoyance. The dispatch stated that the commercial organization no end of annoyance. The dispatch stated that the Chamber of Commerce was authority for the announcement that 2,500 idle men would go to work January 4 (last Monday.) To correct the false impression, the secretary of the Kokomo body has issued the following statement:

"Having in mind certain recent reports from Kokomo to the Indianapolis Star, and other publications, that the Chamber of Commerce was instrumental in bringing about the indictments now pending against officials in our city administration, and that it has authorized statements to the effect that 2,500 men will be put to work in certain local industries next Monday, I, as an official in this organization, desire to challenge these statements as being untrue and unauthorized officially. As the policy of this organization is not to express itself upon these or any other matters of public concern until the facts have been fully disclosed regarding any condition so-called or otherwise, and to forestall a chance of any opinion of an acquiescence on the part of this organization in these reports, I deem it my duty to make this statement.

Adding further in the story concerning the false stories, the Tribune says:

As far as Kokomo people are concerned, it is scarcely necessary to challenge the correctness of the dispatch appearing in the Star today. It shows on its face that it is absurd. The statement that the Kokomo Steel & Wire company "will open with a full force of 1,400 men" proclaims the dispatch a piece of fiction. There never was a time, not even when it was enjoying its greatest prosperity, that the company mentioned employed anywhere near that number of men. Everybody in Kokomo is hoping for better business conditions, of course, but all sensible citizens know nothing is to be gained by sending out bogus prosperity items. Such items are really hurtful, as they lead idle men in other cities to flock here in the hope of finding employment. Kokomo is already overrun with idle men. The citizens are feeding hundreds of unemployed strangers every day. A further influx is most emphatically not desired.

The Tribune makes the following editorial comment:

There is evidence of a renewal of the effort to manufacture prosperity by fake stories of a revival of business displayed in the metropolitan press. A sample of it appears in the Indianapolis Star which sets forth under flaming headlines that on Monday 2,500 men will be put to work in Kokomo factories. A few weeks ago when a similar story was printed in the metropolitan press scores of idle men rushed to this city to find work only to discover that they had been cruelly deceived and betrayed. This thing is infamous and the newspapers guilty of it should be ashamed of it. The blame does not rest entirely nor chiefly with the local representatives of the newspapers. Some of the deception is manufactured in the editorial rooms of the offending newspapers and most of it is planned and ordered from that source.

People's Column

McGill, Nevada, December 29, 1914.
Editor Rushville Daily Republican:

I note by your paper that the court house clock has a habit of freezing. I would like to make the following suggestion:

That instead of going to the trouble and expense of putting in a steam line and radiator, a small electric heater be installed in series with a thermostat. Have the thermostat so adjusted that whenever the temperature in the clock room fell to ten degrees Fahrenheit, the current would be switched on. Then if a second set of glass plates be put on the outside of the present set having say one-fourth of an inch air space between, the heat in the clock room proper could escape only very slowly and the current consumption would be reduced to a minimum. This arrangement would relieve the custodian of the trouble of watching the thermometer and turning on the steam whenever it became dangerously cold. It would also save the heat wasted when it was not actually required, that would unavoidably occur with a steam heater. It would further remove any possibility of forgetting to turn the heat on. This sort of apparatus would be entirely automatic and would require no attention other than an occasional inspection. Its running cost would be much less than steam and I do not believe the cost of installation would be so great.

Yours,
L CAMPBELL.

SHOWS BIG GAIN. MADE IN STATE

Analysis of Vote Cast for United States Senator Made Public by Secretary L. W. Henley

BASED ON OFFICIAL RETURNS

Reveals Republican Gain Was 13,000 Greater Than Both Progressive and Democratic Loss.

An enlightening analysis of the vote cast for United States senator by the various parties in Indiana at the election last November in comparison with the vote cast by the same parties for president at the general election of 1912 has been made public by L. W. Henley, secretary of the Republican state central committee.

Mr. Henley's figures, based on official returns on file in the office of the secretary of state of Indiana show that at the recent election the Republicans made gains in every county in Indiana while the Progressives showed a loss in every county in the state and the Democrats showed a falling off in their total in 64 of the 92 counties in the state. The average Republican gain was 820 votes to a county, while the average Progressive loss was 579 votes to a county, and the average net Democratic loss to a county was 104 votes.

The Republican gain in Indiana was approximately 13,000 greater than the combined Progressive and Democratic losses. The total Progressive loss was approximately 53,000 the net Democratic loss was approximately 9,600 while the total Republican gain in the state was a little more than 75,000 votes.

The Republican gain in the following counties was greater than the combined Progressive loss and Democratic gain: Delaware, Dubois, Fayette, Jay, Jennings, Knox, Kosciusko, Newton, Ohio, Orange, Parke, Porter, Pulaski, Starke, Vermillion and Wabash. Compared with the Republican vote for governor in 1912, the Republican gain amounted to a little more than 83,000 while the Progressive loss, comparing the 1912 vote for governor with their 1914 vote for senator, showed a loss of approximately 57,500.

The Republican gain in Lake county was almost twice as large as the combined Progressive and Democratic losses.

Outside of Marion and Lake counties the greatest Republican gains were in Vigo, and Vanderburg counties. The Democrats also showed their best gains in these counties. The Progressive vote in Vigo fell off 2568 while the Republicans gained 3,215 and the Democrats gained 2090. A part of the answer to this riddle is found in the fact that the Socialist vote in Vigo county in 1914 fell off about 1,000 votes in comparison with their total in that county in 1912. There was also a substantial gain in the total vote cast in Vigo in 1914 compared with the total cast in that county at the last presidential election. The Democrats showed gains in 28 counties but outside of Vigo, St. Joseph and Vanderburg their gains were but nominal. Outside of Marion county where the 1914 Democratic vote was 7843 less than in 1912, the greatest Democratic loss was in Jackson county.

In only nine counties in the state did the Republicans cast less than 1,000 votes in 1914. In 1912 they failed to reach this total in 26 counties. The Democrats failed to reach the 1,000 total in five counties in 1914.

The Socialists made their best showing in Vanderburg, where they took third place, polling 1194 votes to 1213 for the Socialists.

From the returns the Democratic vote in Lagrange, Ohio, Switzerland, Dubois and Ripley counties seems to be rather stable. There was a difference of but three votes between the Democratic totals in Lagrange in 1912 and 1914; the difference in Switzerland was but six votes; seven in Ohio, nine in Dubois, and ten in Ripley.

Health--How to Preserve It Disease--How to Prevent It

Prepared for the United Press by Dr. J. N. Hurty
State Health Commissioner

(Dr. Hurty will answer questions on prevention of disease, hygiene and sanitation. Questions requiring a personal answer cannot be considered. To avoid delay, address all questions direct to the UNITED PRESS ASSOCIATIONS, 36 1/2 West Washington St., Indianapolis. Questions may be sent to THE DAILY REPUBLICAN if preferred.)

Mrs. H. A., Indianapolis, writes—"Have you anything to say about over-crowded cars? It seems to me they are unhealthful and unsafe. Why isn't this a violation of some law just as is the adulteration of food or giving short weight?"

Reply—Overcrowded and unventilated cars are inimical to the public health. I have studied the question a great deal and made many inquiries and find the public is largely to blame for crowding and poor ventilation. I have frequently opened ventilators in crowded cars in cold weather and been called crank and glared at for doing it. Conductors have told me that they are rewarded likewise for any ventilating service they might perform. The over-crowding and bad ventilation of street cars will never cease until the people at large and not a few become opposed to such conditions. There is no direct law against over-crowding street cars and against bad ventilation. Indirect or general laws do not work when they are tried in the courts. The State Board of Health will ask the next legislature to pass a direct law against over-crowding, against bad ventilation, and against unsanitary conditions. The said law as now drawn places a penalty upon citizens for befouling cars and for rendering them in any way insanitary. You can help get this law passed by writing to your legislators and urging them to support the public health cause.

Miss L. writes—"I weigh 185 pounds, am 34 years old, and want to get thin. I eat meat three times a day and six cups of tea a day and much pastry. Please suggest a diet for me?"

Reply—The only way to reduce weight that is at all safe is to starve oneself. Live on two meat meals a day and drink very little water. This will entail suffering and you will not be comfortable by a good deal, but it will reduce your weight and it may also bring a worse condition than that which you wish to remove. Don't take medicines to reduce your weight for if you do, you will almost certainly repent it. If you use medicines to start your weight going down, it probably will keep on going after you stop the use of the medicine. A person who eats meat three times a day and drinks six cups of tea a day as you say you do, is bound to have trouble with his or her metabolism sooner or later.

The damage suit of Jefferson C. Davis, a well known farmer of near Clarksburg, against John T. Meek, was dismissed yesterday in the Decatur circuit court. A TREACHEROUS TROUBLE

Rushville People Are Shown the Way Out.

Kidney diseases are very dangerous. They come on silently, gain ground rapidly, and cause thousands of deaths that could have been prevented by proper treatment in the beginning. Nature gives early warnings of kidney disease—backache, twinges of pain when stooping or lifting, headaches and urinary disorders. If these symptoms are unheeded, there is grave danger of dropsy or possible Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills have earned a reputation for their effectiveness in kidney troubles, and are known and recommended the world over. Rushville readers should find convincing proof in the following statement. It's from a citizen of this locality.

J. F. Champion, 618 West Fifth street, Rushville, says: "I suffered a great deal from backache and kidney weakness. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, I got a supply from Johnson & Co.'s Drug Store. They gave me relief. I think highly of Doan's Kidney Pills and am glad to confirm what one of my family said about them some years ago."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Champion had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props, Buffalo, N. Y. (Advertisement.)

CHILD OF EIGHT WEAK AND AILING

Little Collins' Girl Also Had Stubborn Chronic Cough—Father Tells How She Was Restored to Health by Vinol.

Lakeport, N.H.—“Our little girl, 8 years of age, was in a debilitated, run-down condition, and had a stubborn, chronic cough. While she did not have to stay out of school, on account of her condition, she was weak and ailing all the time and far from well.

“We treated her cough, but nothing seemed to help her until we tried Vinol, after which we noticed an immediate improvement. Her appetite increased and now she is strong and well and we can recommend Vinol to other parents who have delicate, ailing children.”—Geo. A. COLLINS, Lakeport, N.H.

What Vinol did for this little girl it will do for other weak and ailing children, because they need the tissue-building, strengthening cod liver elements and the tonic iron that Vinol contains. It is delicious to the taste.

That's why Vinol builds them up so quickly, and we ask parents of delicate children in this vicinity to try Vinol with the understanding that we will return their money if it fails to give satisfactory results.

SEVERAL CLUBS WANT GOLF MEET

Competition is Keen to Secure National Open Tournament—To Be Decided Tomorrow

FOX HILLS CLUB IN LEAD

Body Checking in Hockey Has Been Practically Disbarred by Amateur Hockey League.

BY HAL SHERIDAN
(Written for United Press.)

New York, Jan. 6.—Unusual competition by clubs to secure the national open golf tournament has been displayed this year. The Fox Hills Club has for sometime been keeping this fixture in view and tomorrow at the annual meeting of the United States Golf Association the decision of the officials will be made known. The Baltusrol club has also been a keen competitor for the tournament and contends that it is entitled to it.

The Garden City Club has a look in and the Wilmington Country Club is anxious to secure either the open or any other championships. Many Western men have expressed a desire to see the open held again over the Long Island course. It is regarded in the West as certain that the open will be held near New York. If the large delegation from Chicago vote solid they will probably hold the key to the situation.

Body checking in hockey has been practically disbarred by the amateur Hockey League. No player who is not actually handling the puck may now be checked. The interpretation of this rule depends considerably on the referee for the rule is taken to mean that the player is playing the puck so long as he can reach it with his stick.

A player coming down the ice and carrying the puck against the boards must be given the right of way and not checked against the boards. The hard checking which in the past has been a feature of many games here will thus be abolished to a great extent. A faster game is possible under the new rule.

In spite of the fact that he had declared that he would retire, Robert D. Wrenn has consented to accept the office of president of the United States National Lawn Tennis Association, if he is re-elected at the annual meeting next month.

John Wallace, who fell on the steps at his home last Saturday and was first thought to be seriously ill, is greatly improved.

OPEN NOSTRILS! END A COLD OR CATARRH

How To Get Relief When Head and Nose are Stuffed Up.

Count fifty! Your cold in head or catarrh disappears. Your clogged nostrils will open, the air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more snuffling, hawking, mucous discharge, dryness or headache; no struggling for breath at night.

Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist and apply a little of this fragrant antiseptic cream in your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage of the head, soothing and healing the swollen or inflamed mucous membrane, giving you instant relief. Head colds and catarrh yield like magic. Don't stay stuffed-up and miserable. Relief is sure.

MADISON HI PLAYS LOCALS FRIDAY

Fast Game Expected as Teams Are Believing to be Evenly Matched—Both Beat Franklin.

RUSHVILLE TEAM IN SHAPE

The Rushville high school team after a two weeks' vacation will again get in action Friday night, when the fast Madison high school team comes here for a game. The Madison team is considered very fast and the local team will be up against a tough proposition. Madison earlier in the season defeated Franklin and as Rushville defeated Franklin the fans are expecting a great game.

The Rushville team is in good shape for the contest. Stoops, who has been out of the game for several weeks on account of a dislocated shoulder, expects to get in the game Friday night and the rest of two weeks is expected to be a benefit to the team. The big game will be started at eight o'clock and a record crowd is expected.

WILL HAVE PIG AT BANQUET

U. R. K. of P. Inspection and Installation Thursday Night.

The annual inspection and installation of new officers, with a banquet beforehand, is the program for the Uniform Rank, Knights of Pythias, when they meet tomorrow night. Through the generosity of Will Morgan, a Knight, the lodge will enjoy pig at the banquet, which will be served promptly at six-thirty o'clock. Invitations have been extended to Knightstown, Newcastle and Connersville lodges to attend the ceremonies and it is likely several will attend.

According to Newcastle newspapers, the Knights of Pythias will hold a meeting there tonight to arrange to attend the installation here. The entire company plans to come here in automobiles, leaving Newcastle tomorrow afternoon at 4:30.

WILL WAIT FOR MEETING

Chamber of Commerce Will Not Elect President Until February.

At the meeting of the executive committee of the Rush County Chamber of Commerce board of directors at headquarters last night, it was decided not to elect a new president to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of W. M. Sparks, as the new president, if one were elected, would have only a month to serve. The annual meeting of the corporation will be held the second Tuesday in February, which will be February 9. The constitution and by-laws call for the annual meeting of the members at that time. The first vice-president will act as head of the organization pending the meeting of the organization.

WILL GET SCALP OF AMENDMENTS

That is Avowed Purpose of Woman's Franchise League Expressed in Bulletin Just Issued.

STRESS LAID ON THE SECOND

It is Insult to Indiana Woman and Reflects on Justice of Indiana Men, Bulletin Says.

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Jan. 6.—“To be Defeated—The Twenty-two stotsenberg Amendments.” That statement in capital letters heads a bulletin sent out by the Woman's Franchise League of Indiana from its headquarters here. The women use sarcasm, ridicule and forceful language in denouncing these amendments and calling for their defeat. The bulletin indicates that Indiana women, though seeking some constructive legislation, will devote a good portion of their time to defeating proposed measures and amendments that are to their minds opposed to their cause—equal franchise.

The bulletin takes up the amendments one by one and picks them to pieces, dealing especially to the one considered inimical to the woman's cause. “No. 2” it says, “is an insult to Indiana women and reflects on the justice of Indiana men.” No. 2 is the one that would increase from six months to one year the length of time a man should be required to live in the state before he became a voter. This amendment, the women say, would “make suffrage impossible.”

The women indicate that they have not confined their study to the suffrage cause when they criticize the first, fourth, sixteenth and twenty-second amendments. No. 1, which gives the general assembly the authority to enact a compulsory compensation law for injury or death occurring to employees engaged in hazardous employment, is, they say “a measure for specialists in the field labor, uninfluenced by politics, to pass upon.”

The fourth amendment gives the general assembly the right to adopt special charters for the different cities of the state. This, they say, “is an inadequate recognition of the present day needs of city government.” They declare the sixteenth amendment, providing for the reform of the tax laws “provides quite inadequately for the scientific revision of our tax laws.” No. 22 is good, they say, but is not a sufficient cause for a special election. This amendment omits the prohibition in the present constitution against submitting one amendment to the constitution while another amendment is pending.

These amendments will be adopted one by one in the form of resolutions. If any of them are so unpopular as to be defeated, the defeat will stand alone, not affecting the others. Should the women wield their influence on the second amendment in particular, they might cause its defeat. It is believed this is what they intend to do.

The funeral services of Alonzo Gates, who died yesterday at his home in Carthage, will be conducted Friday morning at the late residence and burial will take place in the Carthage cemetery.

German Reports Pass Lie to Stories of Alsace Victories

(By United Press.)

Berlin, (Via The Hague), Jan. 6.—Official reports from the western front today take direct issue with the French claims of important successes along the Meuse and in Alsace. It is stated that while fighting of the most determined character is in progress in Alsace the Germans there are regaining the ground recently lost to the enemy, and the attacks on the German positions on the Meuse near St. Mihiel have all failed.

The funeral services of Amos Crawford a Civil war veteran, who died at his home at the edge of Knightstown Monday, were held today. Mr. Crawford was 70 years of age. Although he was not in robust health, his death was very unexpected.

PLANS FOR WAR STORED AWAY

Since Recent Agitation Careful Laid Plans for Defense and Offense Have Been Taken

DEVELOP IDEA BY GAME BOARD

Intricate Problems Are Solved by This Method—America Takes Lesson From Germany

BY BURTON K. STANDISH (Written for United Press.)

Washington, Jan. 6.—Stored away in the vaults of the army and navy departments today are secret plans for war. These show what moves this country would make in event of any hostilities against our shores. Every possible plan of approach of an enemy has been considered, and with it has been evolved by the military strategists a method for meeting such an attack.

Not until the recent agitation over national security was it known that this nation is prepared for war, in the sense of having such carefully laid schemes of defense and offense. Asst. Secretary of Navy Roosevelt himself disclosed one of the secrets when he indicated that fully 50,000 more men would have to be added to the navy, if a foreign power were to make war on this nation. But for the most part, the views of and the strategy of the military planners is guarded with jealous care.

Back of these confidential war moves lies two great organizations—the army and navy war colleges. Their "game boards", in conjunction with the fleet have developed these war ideas to a nicety which officials believe would stand the nations in good stead in case of actual practice instead of theory. The relation between the "game boards" and the actual fleet operation, in the navy for instance, has been admittedly weak in recent months. But the Navy Department has turned its attention to making these problems of attack and defense as practical as possible. To this end, work is now under way to make the relations between the theorists and the admirals and captains closer and more practical.

The "game board" is just what its name signifies—a huge board on which the game of destruction is played by men trained to the arts of death.

The United States navy is represented by miniature ships of a certain color. The ships of an enemy are designed by another color. They are moved around like chess men, but the elements of mathematical calculation of unerring accuracy, of naval strategy enter into every movement. One tactical mistake may destroy the miniature United States fleet. To err on the game board is serious business for it means that the main charge might do the same were he engaged in a life and death struggle.

Then make the board play more realistic, the intricate problem suggested by the board are transferred to commanders of the big dreadnoughts. There, these ideas are put into actual practice when maneuvers are possible.

Problems suggested by the naval encounters of the European war have been transferred to the game board, so that America's strategists may benefit from the spectacular feats of British and German vessels alike.

And the army, too, works out maneuvers along the same line. Both of the military colleges develop officers in all the "tricks of the trade." For instance, these colleges have developed—in theory at least—that a battlefleet from Europe might approach America's shores, halt at a distance of fully 600 miles from New York, and then send out over the waves an air-craft loaded with bombs to drop on America's metropolis.

In these colleges officers of both services are given the benefit of a world training in strategy. They are taught to go the other fellow one better. And the training is invaluable, officials contend. Rear Admiral Fiske is authority for the statement that Germany's war planning is responsible for the remarkable escape of the German vessels from Kiao Chan and their subsequent sally into Chilean waters where they sank two vessels larger than themselves.

Such an escape, he fully believes, was developed by the "wonderful, strategists—war planners of the German empire—long before the war broke out. Then, too, he believes that superior skill was responsible for the German victory against two larger vessels—a feat unparalleled in naval annals.

An American has taken a leaf from Germany's book. She has laid her plans carefully and thoroughly, and if war comes, no move can be made by an enemy which is not already anticipated in those secret papers that repose under lock and key in the gray granite building of the war and navy branches.

Apropos of the discussion of national security, much comment has been aroused by the proposal to shut off exportation of privately manufactured munition of war after 1920. A bill introduced by Rep. Cresser of Ohio proposes such a move. If it is enacted into law, America can have the assurance that "Made in America" instruments of death will never be turned against this nation. Cresser likewise proposes that the government extend its activities to manufacture of its own ammunition. That the government has been "gouged" in times past by manufacturers of certain lines is the very plain intimation of Sec. Daniels, who himself stands for such government ownership.

Richmond and Baltimore Protest Over Location of Federal Reserve Bank Before Board

PROMINENT MEN APPEAR

Has Authority to Re-District Any Time and Several Changes Are Expected Soon

(By United Press.)

Washington, Jan. 6.—Rival claims of Richmond, Va., and Baltimore, Md., for financial and commercial supremacy were aired here today. Hearings were begun by the federal reserve board up on the protest of Baltimore against the location of the regional reserve bank at Richmond instead of Baltimore. Failing to win out in a fight with Richmond to have the regional bank located at Baltimore, interests of the latter city request, as one alternative, that Baltimore be included in the Philadelphia instead of the Richmond banking district.

Other protests of geographical divisions of the new banking system were heard by the board later. The regional banks were assigned by the "organization committee" before the board was appointed. The board has authority to re-district and change banking districts at any time. As secretary of the Treasury McAdoo and Comptroller of Currency John Skelton Williams were members of the organization committee making the original selections and are now members of the board, it is thought that important changes in the present geographical make-up of the new system are doubtful.

Prominent bankers and business men of Baltimore and Richmond appeared today. They filed reams of documents pro and con. The oral arguments today, however, were the first held by the new board.

ASK REASON FOR WILSON'S VISIT

Indiana Democrats Speculate About
President's Sudden Resolution to Come to Indianapolis.

JACKSON DAY OBSERVANCE

Terre Haute Indictments or Boom
For Re-Election is What Puzzles The Politicians.

Relative to the recently announced visit of President Wilson to Indiana, Robert G. Tucker, writing from Indianapolis has the following to say:

Whether President Wilson is coming here next Friday to launch his candidacy for re-nomination in 1916 or to admonish the Democrats that they can't with reason expect victory in the campaign two years hence unless the legislature carries out the platform pledges and the party purges itself completely of the gangs that have infested Terre Haute and other large cities in a source of speculation among the faithful.

The latter don't like to go so far as to say that the President has wished himself on to the Democrats of Indiana as a Jackson Day attraction, yet most of them seem unable to get a clear understanding of how it happened that the President suddenly took it into his mind to decide to honor this city and state with a visit on a day when the headlines among the big speakers are at a premium.

The party leaders here knew nothing of the proposed trip of the President until Dick Miller, president of the Indiana Democratic club received a telegram from Senator John W. Kern stating that the President would speak here on Jackson Day if a meeting could be arranged. Miller called up some of the Democratic brethren to give them the news and probably to find out if they had any information as to what was back of the Kern telegram.

He discovered very quickly that the higher-ups who usually have to do with the arrangements of Jackson Day celebrations had not extended an invitation to the President.

In fact, the Kern telegram contained the suggestion that Miller get in touch immediately with Governor Ralston, National Committeeman Taggart for a meeting and a banquet. Miller started the machinery and informed Senator Kern accordingly, whereupon a statement was given out at Washington that the President had accepted an invitation to speak here on Jackson Day, but that he would not be able to remain for a banquet at night.

Many of the party workers jumped immediately to the conclusion that the President and Senator Kern were concerned about the situation in Indiana growing out of the recent indictments of members of the last legislature on fraud charges, of which they were cleared, and the indictment resulting in the wholesale arrests for election law violators at Terre Haute.

WINS FIRST PIG CONTEST IN STATE

Terrel Ham, Nephew of Mr. and
Mrs. W. O. Feudner of This City,
Victor in New Kind of Event.

AT MARKLEVILLE RECENTLY

Seventeen-Year-Old Boy Awarded
Trip to Short Course and Show
For Raising Best Hogs.

Terrel Ham, age seventeen years, of Markleville, Ind., nephew of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Feudner of this city, won the first pig culb contest ever held in Indiana. The Indianapolis News printed a picture of the boy standing in his hog lot with his two prize-winning Hampshires.

The contest, which was made possible through the generosity of Benjamin Keach, cashier of the Markleville bank, actively supported by the Madison county agricultural agent, W. R. Butler, was participated in by boys living in the vicinity of Markleville.

Terrel Ham finished with a score of eighty-three. The pigs fed by him were Hampshires and the gains of 192 pounds on one and 186 pounds on the other were made from a ration consisting of oats, corn, shorts, rye and milk, fed at different stages of the experiment.

Mr. Keach offered three prizes to be decided on a basis of cost of gain, date of gain and composition, which should include the records of feed and weights. The first prize was to include all expenses for the short course at Purdue university, January 11 to 15. The second prize was to include the expenses for a three-day visit to the International stock show at Chicago. As this show was not held because of the foot and mouth disease, a certificate entitling the boy to attend the show next winter was substituted. The third prize was a pure bred pig. In addition to these prizes offered by Mr. Keach, each boy received a pure-bred pig from Mr. Butler.

This contest opened last April with seven boys—three were able to finish. Each boy selected two pigs, usually from his father's herd, and agreed to take care of the pigs and keep careful records of the feed, and weights of the animals at given times. When the boys' reports had been made they, with their fathers and others interested in the outcome, were invited by Mr. Keach to a supper.

After the tables were cleared, lantern slide showing different stages of the feeding experiment and other views were exhibited by Mr. Butler. In his speech, he emphasized the important place of the hog on the American farm and its economic value to the farmer. F. M. Shanklin, of Purdue university, who has charge of the organization of pig clubs, complimented the boys on the achievement of pioneer work and told them of the prospects of other clubs. At the close of his speech, Mr. Shanklin awarded the prizes.

Facts About Furs.

The costliest sable is the Yakutsk or Russian skin that runs "silvery"—that has, in other words, a number of equally distributed white or silvery hairs among the soft and silky brown ones. The black silver fox is most valuable when there is no silver in it—when it is a pure rich black throughout. Ermine, contrary to the general belief, cleans well and is an exceedingly durable fur. Sea otter skins measure 48 by 24 inches. The best color is a dark bluish brown, almost black. Fisher is a large marten found in Canada and the northern United States. The skin measures 30 by 12 inches.

partment in good shape for the coming year.

The yearly report of Superintendent Mahin was ready but because of the late hour it was postponed until the next meeting. The report of the superintendent shows that the water and light plant was operated at a less cost than the year before. A saving of $2,000 was made in coal alone during the year.

The council met Monday night as the city board of finance and named the depositories for the city's money during the year 1915. The funds were divided as follows: Rush County National bank, 32½ per cent; Rushville National bank, 28½ per cent; Peoples National bank, 20 per cent; Peoples Loan and Trust company, 10 per cent; Farmers Trust company, 9 per cent.

A Singular Marriage Feast.

Polynesia is probably the only place in the world where the marriage feast takes place without the presence of the bridegroom. For some unexplained reason the young man is "sent into the bush" when the bride becomes a member of his family, and he invariably remains there during the subsequent festivities. It is only when the guests have departed and the girl is left alone with her parents that messengers are dispatched for him.

PERKINS TRIED A SECOND TIME

Evidence Same as That in First Trial When Jury Disagreed Over Evidence of "Bootlegging."

GEORGE W. YOUNG AS JUDGE

Just Before Case Starts Counsel For Perkins Demands Change of Judge From Mayor.

The case against Greeley Perkins, charged with "bootlegging," was tried for the second time this afternoon in police court. The case was heard by a jury and Special Judge George W. Young. Perkins was represented by Hall and Campbell and just before the case started a motion was filed asking for a change of judge. Mayor Belmont appointed George W. Young as special judge.

The evidence in the case was similar to the first trial when the jury disagreed. The case was not expected to reach the jury before four o'clock this afternoon. The prosecuting witness Alexander West, of Gwynneville, testified that Perkins approaching him on the morning of December 24 and offered to get some whiskey if West would give him the money. West stated that he gave him a dollar and that in a short time Perkins returned with two half-pint bottles of whiskey and fifty cents in change.

The prosecution, which was represented by Prosecutor Stevens, had a time getting West to say just what it was Perkins gave him. He finally admitted that it was whiskey, but that it was a very poor grade. Chief Rosencrance stated that he saw West hand Perkins some money and that later he saw Perkins hand West the two bottles and that the two men took a drink. This was in the rear of the August Roth pool room in East First street.

Chief Rosencrance was unable to say how much money passed between the men as he could not tell the amount from where he was located. The defense maintained that Perkins acted as the agent for West and that there was no actual sale. If there was any sale, it was maintained that it occurred between Perkins and the person he purchased the booze from. In the trial of Frank Butts it was brought out that Perkins bought the whiskey of him.

The jury was composed of the following men: O. E. Humes, Berry Osborn, Charles Hugo, John Boyd, F. E. Wolcott, H. M. Cowing, Charles Hall, Frank Abererembie, Michael McDonald, E. A. Frazee, James Bennett, Charles Hinkle.

Spillman and Meek Discover Robbery This Morning on Opening But Loss is Not Determined.

CASH DRAWER IS UNTOUCHED

The general store of Spillman and Meek in Milroy was entered last night, but late today it was impossible to tell the extent of the robbery. An invoice was being taken in the hopes of learning what was taken and the value. The glass in the side door of the store was smashed and entrance was gained in this manner. The robbery is supposed to have occurred after midnight but was not discovered until this morning when the store was opened for business. Some tobacco and other small articles were missed but the money drawer was not touched. The cash register contained several dollars in change but this was not bothered. Sheriff Cavitt was called but there is no clew to the robbery and he did not go to Milroy.

TWO ECLIPSES MARKED UP FOR '15

Neither Will be Visible to the United States, According to Latest Model Almanac

EASTER FALLS ON APRIL 4

Two eclipses of the sun in 1915 and neither visible to the United States—this is the disappointing feature of the almanac for this year.

There will be no eclipse of the sun. Eclipses each year range from two to seven. The new year has the minimum number of eclipses, and when the number is only two both must be of the sun. The world will not see the maximum total number of eclipses until 1917, when there will be seven, five of the sun and two of the moon.

The first eclipse this year will occur February 14, and will be visible in Africa and in the Indian ocean. The second will occur August 10-11, and will be visible in Asia and on the Pacific ocean.

Easter this year will fall on April 4, Ash Wednesday being February 17.

CITY NOT LIKELY TO DO THE OILING

Method of Keeping Dust Down Last Year Suggested at Council Meeting Tuesday Night.

SOME SENTIMENT AGAINST IT

Report of Superintendent Mahin Shows City Plant Was Operated For $2,000 Less Than in 1913.

The city is not likely to go into the district oiling business this year. From the sentiment expressed at the regular meeting of the city council last night if there is any oiling done the coming spring it will be done individually. It was suggested to the council that if the city planned to follow last year's method that now was the time to get ready. Councilman Brann stated openly that he would oppose any measure providing for the city to do the oiling as was done last year.

Councilman Brann said the whole job was not worth all the knocking he received and for his part the bars would be thrown down and anyone that wanted to oil could go ahead. Under the plan last year the city oilled every unpaved street and the costs were assessed against the abutting property owners. In order to remonstrate the entire street was taken into consideration and the extra work is not worth the trouble it is alleged. The city treasurer still has accounts out for street oiling. The stand of Councilman Brann will likely be followed by others and it is probable if there is any oiling the city will have no part in it.

There was nothing of great importance done at the council meeting. Most of the time was taken up with the report of the city treasurer on the amount of money collected and the amounts due on several sidewalk improvements. Some have paid the assessments and others have not. In many instances waivers have not been signed and all the money has not been paid in. The contractor, A. R. Herkless, wants the city to pay him all the money on the contract price when as a matter of fact the city has not collected all the money with which to pay.

Herkless has threatened to sue the city. In the past the contractor has been paid regardless of whether the money has been collected but the city holds this is wrong and at the next meeting bonds will be issued for the balance due on the improvements and Herkless will be given the money as soon as the bonds are paid.

Repairs amounting to about $180 will be made at the water and light plant. The pumps are all in good order with the exception of the air compressor. This is in bad shape, according to Superintendent Mahin. The pump has been in operation for the past eighteen years and will be repaired at this time rather than in the summer months when it is badly needed. The water and light committee was given power to go ahead with the repairs. Some work will also have to be done on the boilers.

The city purchased 500 feet of fire hose. A representative of the Enreka Fire Hose company of New York was present and the order was placed with him. This is the company that the city has purchased its hose from for many years. The hose bought last night is the same as that purchased one year ago, costing ninety cents a foot. Fire Chief Easley told the council that this additional hose would put the fire department in a better position.

HOLDS ITS FIRST MEETING OF 1915

New Library Board Meets Tuesday Night and Reorganizes, Electing J. H. Scholl President.

TWO NEW MEMBERS ON BOARD

Report of Librarian Shows 1,332 Volumes Loaned in December—145 New Books Received.

The first meeting of the year for the library board since two vacancies have been filled was held in the library in the court house last night. It was the regular monthly meeting. The report of the librarian, Miss Mary Sleeth, was heard, showing that 1,332 volumes were loaned during the month of December, making a daily average of fifty-two. The report also revealed that there are now 2,715 books in the library.

The board reorganized by electing J. H. Scholl, president; Ernest B. Thomas vice-president and Charles Bales, secretary and treasurer. The last two named are new members of the board. They have been appointed since the first of the year by Judge Will M. Sparks to fill the vacancies caused by the resignations of Judge Sparks and Mrs. Thomas McWhinney, who has moved to Indianapolis. Other members of the board are Mrs. John F. Moses, Mrs. Wallace Morgan, Mrs. A. L. Gary and Wilbur Stiers.

One hundred and forty-five new volumes for the library have just been received and Miss Sleeth is now busily engaging cataloging them. This is a part of an order for more than two hundred new books recently made. There is very little fiction in the order just received, the bulk of the order consisting of classified works.

In the shipment just received a number of children's books supplementing what the library already has. Particular attention has been paid to works for children. Prominent among those just arriving are a number of books for children on how to make and do things. They are held to be invaluable to the child who has ideas about accomplishing things.

"Children's Library of Work and Play" is one volume that is held to be especially attractive. Several volumes in the series, "Children's Lives of Great Men," were received in the new order. Some of this series are already in the library. An attractive list of fairies stories have already been received.

A book that is attracting considerable attention just now, Gertrude Atherton's "History of California," is among the new arrivals at the library. Another that is expected to finger-mark very early in its career in the Rushville library is Richard Barton's "How to See a Play."

COMPROMISE IS REACHED

Sudden Termination of Case Makes it Quiet in Court.

It was rather quiet in the circuit court again today. Judge Sparks was to have heard the receivership suit of Lindley M. Moore against Paul Cooper, but the case did not come to trial because a compromise was reached. The suit was for an accounting and a dissolution of partnership. The receivership was the question to have been decided this morning. The firm has been doing an insurance business in Carthage.

Indianapolis, Jan. 6.—National Committeeman Thos Taggart will not publicly advise the legislature as he did two years ago. He indicated this today when he said: "It would not be proper for me or anyone else to say now should be done." In 1913 Mr. Taggart willingly talked of what legislation he thought should be passed.

"The members of the legislature will get together and decide what should be passed. It seems that it will be broad-gauged economical session," he said.

Mr. Taggart said he had not looked into the matter of the proposed Stotesenberg amendments which has been attacked by the Woman's Franchise League.

Concerning salaries he said: "It is believed that an officer should work for the salary which he knew the office paid when he accepted the office."

ONE LIFE IS LOST IN SUBWAY TIE-UP

Five Hundred Passengers Rescued From Death Today Following Explosion and Fire.

WORST IN HISTORY OF CITY

Long Trains Filled to Point of Suffocation and Many Persons Are Rendered Unconscious.

(By United Press.)

New York, Jan. 6.—At 11:30 Fire Chief Kenton, who had been in the subway at 59th street where 500 persons were rescued from death following an explosion and fire, said that he did not believe there was anyone left in the stalled trains. He said that the fire was then out and that only one was dead. One unidentified woman who died at the Policlinic hospital, the chief said, would probably be the only fatality in the worst transportation tie-up in the history of New York.

Thousands of lives were endangered and it was at first feared some lives would be sacrificed in the worst disaster in the history of New York's subway. For hours the entire system was stalled. Long trains filled to the point of suffocation with passengers were tied up between stations.

On a part of the line they were in total darkness. On the second division between 96th street and 14th many persons were rendered unconscious from smoke and as a result of a blow-out and subsequent fire at 53rd street.

Three alarms of fire brought all of the available apparatus to 53rd street where the situation was worst. A grating was jammed loose and there was a train there filled with passengers unconscious from smoke. The situation in the tubes was desperate. The firemen could work only in five-minute relays.

Spinal Column, Where the Cause of Disease is Located

CHIROPRACTIC

(CHI-RO-PRAC-TIC)

The scientific method of removing the cause of all disease by adjusting to the normal position the misplaced (subluxated) vertebrae of the spinal column. The subluxated vertebra cause pressure on the Great Trunk Nerves which emanate between them, thus shutting off the transmission of vital current from the brain to some organ or part of the body to which they lead, leaving it in a weakened condition, subject to disease, causing over 95 per cent of all sickness and suffering known to mankind. Chiropractic adjustments remove the pressure (the cause of disease), restores the vital energy and health returns. I use the hands only. I ask no questions; simply analyze the spine and tell you every place you are affected.

Appendicitis Rheumatism, Nervousness, Asthma, Neuralgia, Deafness, Loss of Voice, Insomnia, Constipation, Bed Wetting, Headaches, Paralysis, Hay Fever, Catarrh, Goiter and affections of the Eyes, Nose, Throat, Lungs, Stomach, Liver, Spleen, (Heart), Bowels, Bladder, Kidneys and reproductive organs quickly and permanently disappear under Chiropractic adjustments properly given. Spinal Curvature quickly corrected. If you are sick or suffering in any way; if you have tried many physicians, specialists and medicines to no avail, then it is your plain duty to consult a chiropractor.

SOLDIERS ARE ON SPEAKING TERMS

French and German Trenches so Close in Argonne Region That Men Are Getting Acquainted.

FIGHTING SYSTEMATIZED

German Soldier Actually Goes Over to French Trench and Gets Some Cigars Offered Him.

BY WILLIAM PHILLIP SIMS.
(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

With the French Army at the Front, Nov. 29.—(By Mail to New York)—At places, here in the Argonne, the French and German trenches are so close together that in the weeks the two armies have been thus face to face, the soldiers are, after a fashion, personally acquainted with each other.

Here, the fighting has become systematized and follows a routine. At certain sections of the trenches the French and Germans have reached an agreement that before a certain hour in the morning there is to be no killing; in the opposing trenches the men are to be allowed to wash up and make their toilet for the day. After the gong taps, figuratively speaking, and any head showing above the level of the ground gets promptly taken off.

Rock battles often take place between the opposing sides. The men grow tired of having nothing to shoot at for hours at a time in order to amuse themselves they bombard each other without the thrower exposing his person to the bullets of the enemy.

The old fashioned hand grenades have come back into style with this close trench through the heavy fogs now of almost daily occurrence in this region, and let go into the midst of a crowd of men.

At times the enemies, however, become almost friendly.

"Say, over there!" a German shouted from his trench. "Have you guys got anything to smoke?"

"Sure!" the chorus came back from the French. "Have you?"

"Not a crumb!"

"To bad. You ought to write the Kaiser."

"Gimme the makin'."

"Come and get 'em."

A giant of a young fellow stuck his head and shoulders above the ground, placed his hands on the edge of the trench and vaulted out on the side towards the French. A month-old flaxen beard stood out about a very round face. Mud covered his formerly grayish-bluish, greenish uniform. A little round, visorless fatigue cap made him look like a young Santa Claus. Stooping, he ran swiftly across the highway which separated the trenches at this point, and, falling flat on his stomach, peered down into the enemy's trench.

"Where's them cigars?" He demanded.

"There they are," a Frenchman replied. "You deserve them! Six, and they're worth a louis apiece."

"Merci!" said the German as he scurried back to his burrow.

"Say!" this same German shouted between puffs. "These cigars are great. Real imported hump!"

A rock the size of a man's fist was the reply to this sally.

"Hey, you Frenchers," the German kept on, "you're a pretty decent lot. I'm going to give you a present, too. Will you shoot me if I come over again?"

"We will that!"—after what you said about the cigars.

Once more the lumbering giant caputulated out of his trench and ran low over to the French, dropping on his stomach as before. In his hand was an object, a dark green, one, with tin foil around the neck and the words "Gout American," on a slip of paper across the sloping shoulder. It was a bottle of champagne, swiped while the Germans were in Rheims.

"Here's your health, fellows," the German said. "Drink heartily! And back he ran.

"Hey!" the Frenchmen shouted laughing. "You've got the nerve of a burglar! You are giving us back our own champagne!"

"Oh, that's all right," the German replied, "your cigars were made in Germany! I recognize the stench!"

Later in the day the German was killed and the news was shouted across the road. He would keep sticking his head above the trench during business hours. But in the night a wreath of wild flowers, gathered by the Frenchmen from heaven knows where, and at no one knows what risks, fell into the trench where he was wont to have his place.

All is not cutting and slashing and shooting and gore; the spice of good humor and the milk of human kindness often, in this fighting, lessens the sting of hatred between the races and of which one hears so much.

Easy to Forgive.

A business man made an appointment with a friend a few days ago and when the time rolled around he forgot the matter entirely.

The incident worried him so much that he was drafted to meet the friend and for several days tried to keep out of the latter's way.

Finally, however, the inevitable happened, and the two met face to face in the lobby of a downtown club.

Before the business man could voice his explanation the friend extended his hand and began to apologize humbly:

"I must beg your pardon, old chap but really I quite forgot about our engagement the other day, and I am indeed very sorry to have disappointed you."

When he fully recovered from the shock the business man exclaimed, with a magnanimous wave of his right hand:

"Don't worry, old man; even the best of us will sometimes forget."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Cure For Nosebleed.

I sometimes read in the daily papers of death caused by bleeding at the nose. Here is a cure discovered by me and not known or practiced by any physician. I am an old shipmaster, have tried it in a number of cases and never knew it to fail. It is very simple. Any one can perform the operation.

Place the patient in a sitting position or propped up in bed, and with the forefinger press gently in the hollow of the throat just above the breast bone, and the bleeding will gradually cease.

To avoid bleeding at the nose, especially in the case of children, get a large bend the size of a large marble, put it on a silk or woolen string and tie it around the neck so that the bend hangs in the hollow of the throat and wear it night and day.—New York Sun.

A Remarkable Stork.

The whale billed stork is found on a lake south of the White Nile. The lake has never been mapped and is bordered by extensive swamps. It is hard to tell where swamp ends and lake begins, for most of the water surface is covered with a dense mat of tangled vegetation. On this mat the whale billed stork builds its nest. It is a very rare bird and is known to the Arabs as the Father of the Shoe, because of its huge shoe shaped bill. It is of solitary habits, blackish gray in color, with wide spreading long toes feet adapted for standing on the quaking surface of a floating field of vegetation. Its habits are sluggish, and it lives mainly on fish. Colonel Roosevelt describes it as "hunting sedately in muddy shallows or standing motionless for hours, surrounded by reed beds or by long reaches of treacherous ooze."

One Way of "Beating the Bounds."

The Cossack can do much in war, but in peace time he is not so handy. Then he is either a fisherman or a farmer, but he knows little about land surveying and less still about land registration. When disputes arise there is a method of settling them. When the boundary has been settled it is registered not upon parchment, but upon boys' backs. All the boys are collected and driven like sheep along the newly surveyed boundary. The procession halts at each landmark, a certain number of boys are chosen, thoroughly whipped and then sent home. This is done in the belief that an unmerited whipping would always remain in the memory of the boys, and thus a method of "beating the bounds."—London Chronicle.

Make the Best at Home

Money spent for the old-style, ready-made cough syrups in bottles holding only 2 to 2 1/2 ounces is very largely wasted, because most of them are composed principally of sugar and water. Yet you have to pay the same price as if it was all medicine. Stop wasting this money. You can make a better cough medicine at home at one-fifth the cost. Merely go to the drug store named below and ask for 2 ounces (50c worth) of Schiffmann's Concentrated Expectorant. Mix this with one pint of granulated sugar and one-half pint of boiling water, which makes a full pint (16 ounces). This new, simple, pleasant remedy is guaranteed to relieve the worst cough or cold. Also excellent for Bronchial Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup, Hoarseness and Whooping Cough. One bottle will make enough home-made cough medicine to probably last the whole family the entire winter. Children like it, it is so pleasant to take and it positively contains no chloroform, opium, morphine or other narcotics, as do most cough mixtures. Keep it on hand in case of emergency and stop each cough before it gets a firm hold. This store has been authorized to return the money in every single case where it does not give perfect satisfaction or is not found the best remedy ever used. Absolutely no risk is run in buying this remedy under this positive guarantee. For sale here by

TO BE OF VALUE TO CORN GROWER

Program for Annual Session in Connection With Purdue Farmers Short Course is Announced

T. A. COLEMAN TO TAKE PART

Former Rushville Man Will Lead Round Table On "Cost of Producing Corn."

Indiana corn growers will discuss problems of immediate interest and importance at the annual meeting January 13, 1915, to be held at Purdue University in connection with the Farmers' Short Course.

Prof. R. A. Moore, head of the Crops Department of the University of Wisconsin, and who has done pioneer work in the organizing and promoting of county grain growing associations will tell Indiana farmers how to improve their crops and how to produce and market high class seed. This is a most important subject since Indiana farmers can realize much higher returns on their seed grain through organizations.

The soils of Indiana are responding to lime. Prof. McCall of Ohio State University will discuss the "Use of Lime in Soil Improvement Work."

It is also found that in many sections of the state limestone can be ground to advantage and thus save freight and hauling. The use of the small limestone grinder will be presented by Prof. McCall. This should be of direct interest and value.

A round table on the subject, "Cost of Producing Corn," led by T. A. Coleman and W. L. Elser, will bring out an interesting discussion. Some interesting data has been gathered which will appeal to every corn grower.

Another feature of the program will be the awarding of medals to men who have grown 100 bushels of corn to the acre. Pres. W. E. Stone of Purdue University will present these and make an address before the association.

The program prepared is strong and should prove helpful to corn growers. It is expected that the attendance will exceed that of any previous year.

Fake Prosperity

Some time ago mention was made of the fake prosperity stories which had been sent from some Indiana cities and Kokomo was on the list. Since then, it will be recalled, several wild stories about the great number of idle men which were returning to employment have been printed under a Kokomo date line.

But the Kokomo Tribune, a reliable daily newspaper which is published in Kokomo, tells an altogether different story. The Tribune proves that the fake brand of prosperity is still going on in Kokomo and that conditions are no better than they were, although it is sincerely hoped by the Tribune that they will brighten up a bit.

In the last dispatch to the Indianapolis Star the correspondent used the name of the Kokomo Chamber of Commerce without authority to do so, which has brought the commercial organization no end of annoyance. The dispatch stated that the commercial organization no end of annoyance. The dispatch stated that the Chamber of Commerce was authorized for the announcement that 2,500 idle men would go to work January 4 (last Monday.) To correct the false impression, the secretary of the Kokomo body has issued the following statement:

"Having in mind certain recent reports from Kokomo to the Indianapolis Star, and other publications, that the Chamber of Commerce was instrumental in bringing about the indictments now pending against officials in our city administration, and that it has authorized statements to the effect that 2,500 men will be put to work in certain local industries next Monday, I, as an official in this organization, desire to challenge these statements as being untrue and unauthorized officially. As the policy of this organization is not to express itself upon these or any other matters of public concern until the facts have been fully disclosed regarding any condition so-called or otherwise, and to forestall a chance of any opinion of an acquiescence on the part of this organization in these reports, I deem it my duty to make this statement.

Adding further in the story concerning the false stories, the Tribune says:

As far as Kokomo people are concerned, it is scarcely necessary to challenge the correctness of the dispatch appearing in the Star today. It shows on its face that it is absurd. The statement that the Kokomo Steel & Wire company "will open with a full force of 1,400 men" proclaims the dispatch a piece of fiction. There never was a time, not even when it was enjoying its greatest prosperity, that the company mentioned employed anywhere near that number of men. Everybody in Kokomo is hoping for better business conditions, of course, but all sensible citizens know nothing is to be gained by sending out bogus prosperity items. Such items are really hurtful, as they lead idle men in other cities to flock here in the hope of finding employment. Kokomo is already overrun with idle men. The citizens are feeding hundreds of unemployed strangers every day. A further influx is most emphatically not desired.

The Tribune makes the following editorial comment:

There is evidence of a renewal of the effort to manufacture prosperity by fake stories of a revival of business displayed in the metropolitan press. A sample of it appears in the Indianapolis Star which sets forth under flaming headlines that on Monday 2,500 men will be put to work in Kokomo factories. A few weeks ago when a similar story was printed in the metropolitan press scores of idle men rushed to this city to find work only to discover that they had been cruelly deceived and betrayed. This thing is infamous and the newspapers guilty of it should be ashamed of it. The blame does not rest entirely nor chiefly with the local representatives of the newspapers. Some of the deception is manufactured in the editorial rooms of the offending newspapers and most of it is planned and ordered from that source.

People's Column

McGill, Nevada, December 29, 1914.
Editor Rushville Daily Republican:

I note by your paper that the court house clock has a habit of freezing. I would like to make the following suggestion:

That instead of going to the trouble and expense of putting in a steam line and radiator, a small electric heater be installed in series with a thermostat. Have the thermostat so adjusted that whenever the temperature in the clock room fell to ten degrees Fahrenheit, the current would be switched on. Then, if a second set of glass plates be put on the outside of the present set having say one-fourth of an inch air space between, the heat in the clock room proper could escape only very slowly and the current consumption would be reduced to a minimum. This arrangement would relieve the custodian of the trouble of watching the thermometer and turning on the steam whenever it became dangerously cold. It would also save the heat wasted when it was not actually required, that would unavoidably occur with a steam heater. It would further remove any possibility of forgetting to turn the heat on. This sort of apparatus would be entirely automatic and would require no attention other than an occasional inspection. Its running cost would be much less than steam and I do not believe the cost of installation would be so great.

Yours,
L CAMPBELL.

SHOWS BIG GAIN. MADE IN STATE

Analysis of Vote Cast for United States Senator Made Public by Secretary L. W. Henley

BASED ON OFFICIAL RETURNS

Reveals Republican Gain Was 13,000
Greater Than Both Progressive and Democratic Loss.

An enlightening analysis of the vote cast for United States senator by the various parties in Indiana, at the election last November in comparison with the vote cast by the same parties for president at the general election of 1912 has been made public by L. W. Henley, secretary of the Republican state central committee.

Mr. Henley's figures, based on official returns on file in the office of the secretary of state of Indiana show that at the recent election the Republicans made gains in every county in Indiana while the Progressives showed a loss in every county in the state and the Democrats showed a falling off in their total in 64 of the 92 counties in the state. The average Republican gain was 820 votes to a county, while the average Progressive loss was 579 votes to a county, and the average net Democratic loss to a county was 104 votes.

The Republican gain in Indiana was approximately 13,000 greater than the combined Progressive and Democratic losses. The total Progressive loss was approximately 53,000 the net Democratic loss was approximately 9,600 while the total Republican gain in the state was a little more than 75,000 votes.

The Republican gain in the following counties was greater than the combined Progressive loss and Democratic gain: Delaware, Dubois, Fayette, Jay, Jennings, Knox, Kosciusko, Newton, Ohio, Orange, Parke, Porter, Pulaski, Starke, Vermillion and Wabash. Compared with the Republican vote for governor in 1912, the Republican gain amounted to a little more than 83,000 while the Progressive loss, comparing the 1912 vote for governor with their 1914 vote for senator, showed a loss of approximately 57,500.

The Republican gain in Lake county was almost twice as large as the combined Progressive and Democratic losses.

Outside of Marion and Lake counties the greatest Republican gains were in Vigo, and Vanderburg counties. The Democrats also showed their best gains in these counties. The Progressive vote in Vigo fell off 2568 while the Republicans gained 3,215 and the Democrats gained 2090. A part of the answer to this riddle is found in the fact that the Socialist vote in Vigo county in 1914 fell off about 1,000 votes in comparison with their total in that county in 1912. There was also a substantial gain in the total vote cast in Vigo in 1914 compared with the total cast in that county at the last presidential election. The Democrats showed gains in 28 counties but outside of Vigo, St. Joseph and Vanderburg their gains were but nominal. Outside of Marion county where the 1914 Democratic vote was 7843 less than in 1912, the greatest Democratic loss was in Jackson county.

In only nine counties in the state did the Republicans cast less than 1,000 votes in 1914. In 1912 they failed to reach this total in 26 counties. The Democrats failed to reach the 1,000 total in five counties in 1914.

The Socialists made their best showing in Vanderburg, where they took third place, polling 1194 votes to 1213 for the Socialists.

From the returns the Democratic vote in Lagrange, Ohio, Switzerland, Dubois and Ripley counties seems to be rather stable. There was a difference of but three votes between the Democratic totals in Lagrange in 1912 and 1914; the difference in Switzerland was but six votes; seven in Ohio, nine in Dubois, and ten in Ripley.

Health--How to Preserve It Disease--How to Prevent It

Prepared for the United Press by Dr. J. N. Hurty
State Health Commissioner

(Dr. Hurty will answer questions on prevention of disease, hygiene and sanitation. Questions requiring a personal answer cannot be considered. To avoid delay, address all questions direct to the UNITED PRESS ASSOCIATIONS, 364 West Washington St., Indianapolis. Questions may be sent to THE DAILY REPUBLICAN if preferred.)

Mrs. H. A., Indianapolis, writes—
"Have you anything to say about over-crowded cars? It seems to me they are unhealthful and unsafe. Why isn't this a violation of some law just as is the adulteration of food or giving short weight?"

Reply—Overcrowded and unventilated cars are inimical to the public health. I have studied the question a great deal and made many inquiries and find the public is largely to blame for crowding and poor ventilation. I have frequently opened ventilators in crowded cars in cold weather and been called crank and glared at for doing it. Conductors have told me that they are rewarded likewise for any ventilating service they might perform. The over-crowding and bad ventilation of street cars will never cease until the people at large and not a few become opposed to such conditions. There is no direct law against over-crowding street cars and against bad ventilation. Indirect or general laws do not work when they are tried in the courts. The State Board of Health will ask the next legislature to pass a direct law against over-crowding, against bad ventilation, and against unsanitary condition. The said law as now drawn places a penalty upon citizens for befouling cars and for rendering them in any way insanitary. You can help get this law passed by writing to your legislators and urging them to support the public health cause.

Miss L. writes—"I weigh 185 pounds, am 34 years old, and want to get thin. I eat meat three times a day and six cups of tea a day and much pastry. Please suggest a diet for me?"

Reply—The only way to reduce weight that is at all safe is to starve oneself. Live on two meat meals a day and drink very little water. This will entail suffering and you will not be comfortable by a good deal, but it will reduce your weight and it may also bring a worse condition than that which you wish to remove. Don't take medicines to reduce your weight for if you do, you will almost certainly repent it. If you use medicines to start your weight going down, it probably will keep on going after you stop the use of the medicine. A person who eats meat three times a day and drinks six cups of tea a day as you say you do, is bound to have trouble with his or her metabolism sooner or later.

The damage suit of Jefferson C. Davis, a well known farmer of near Clarksburg, against John T. Meek, was dismissed yesterday in the Decatur circuit court. The demand was for $10,950 and was for accounting and slander. The case was compromised outside of court several weeks ago, but it was not taken from the court docket until yesterday. It is understood that Mr. Davis received $2,000 in the compromise.

A TREACHEROUS TROUBLE

Rushville People Are Shown the Way Out.

Kidney diseases are very dangerous. They come on silently, gain ground rapidly, and cause thousands of deaths that could have been prevented by proper treatment in the beginning. Nature gives early warnings of kidney disease—backache, twinges of pain when stooping or lifting, headaches and urinary disorders. If these symptoms are unheeded, there is grave danger of dropsy or possible Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills have earned a reputation for their effectiveness in kidney troubles, and are known and recommended the world over. Rushville readers should find convincing proof in the following statement. It's from a citizen of this locality.

J. F. Champion, 618 West Fifth street, Rushville, says: "I suffered a great deal from backache and kidney weakness. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, I got a supply from Johnson & Co.'s Drug Store. They gave me relief. I think highly of Doan's Kidney Pills and am glad to confirm what one of my family said about them some years ago."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Champion had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props, Buffalo, N. Y.

CHILD OF EIGHT WEAK AND AILING

Little Collins' Girl Also Had Stubborn Chronic Cough—Father Tells How She Was Restored to Health by Vinol.

Lakeport, N.H.—“Our little girl, 8 years of age, was in a debilitated, run-down condition, and had a stubborn, chronic cough. While she did not have to stay out of school, on account of her condition, she was weak and ailing all the time and far from well.

“We treated her cough, but nothing seemed to help her until we tried Vinol, after which we noticed an immediate improvement. Her appetite increased and now she is strong and well and we can recommend Vinol to other parents who have delicate, ailing children.”—GEO. A. COLLINS, Lakeport, N.H.

What Vinol did for this little girl will do for other weak and ailing children, because they need the tissue-building, strengthening cod liver elements and the tonic iron that Vinol contains. It is delicious to the taste.

That's why Vinol builds them up so quickly, and we ask parents of delicate children in this vicinity to try Vinol with the understanding that we will return their money if it fails to give satisfactory results.

German Reports Pass Lie to Stories of Alsace Victories

(By United Press.)

Berlin, (Via The Hague), Jan. 6.—Official reports from the western front today take direct issue with the French claims of important successes along the Meuse and in Alsace. It is stated that while fighting of the most determined character is in progress in Alsace the Germans there are regaining the ground recently lost to the enemy, and the attacks on the German positions on the Meuse near St. Mihiel have all failed.

The funeral services of Amos Crawford a Civil war veteran, who died at his home at the edge of Knightstown Monday, were held today. Mr. Crawford was 70 years of age. Although he was not in robust health, his death was very unexpected.

PLANS FOR WAR STORED AWAY

Since Recent Agitation Careful Laid Plans for Defense and Offense Have Been Taken

DEVELOP IDEA BY GAME BOARD

Intricate Problems Are Solved by This Method—America Takes Lesson From Germany

BY BURTON K. STANDISH
(Written for United Press.)

Washington, Jan. 6.—Stored away in the vaults of the army and navy departments today are secret plans for war. These show what moves this country would make in event of any hostilities against our shores. Every possible plan of approach of an enemy has been considered, and with it has been evolved by the military strategists a method for meeting such an attack.

Not until the recent agitation over national security was it known that this nation is prepared for war, in the sense of having such carefully laid schemes of defense and offense. Asst. Secretary of Navy Roosevelt himself disclosed one of the secrets when he indicated that fully 50,000 more men would have to be added to the navy, if a foreign power were to make war on this nation. But for the most part, the views of and the strategy of the military planners is guarded with jealous care.

Back of these confidential war moves lies two great organizations—the army and navy war colleges. Their "game boards", in conjunction with the fleet have developed these war ideas to a nicety which officials believe would stand the nations in good stead in case of actual practice instead of theory. The relation between the "game boards" and the actual fleet operation, in the navy for instance, has been admittedly weak in recent months. But the Navy Department has turned its attention to making these problems of attack and defense as practical as possible. To this end, work is now under way to make the relations between the theorists and the admirals and captains closer and more practical.

The "game board" is just what its name signifies—a huge board on which the game of destruction is played by men trained to the arts of death.

The United States navy is represented by miniature ships of a certain color. The ships of an enemy are designed by another color. They are moved around like chess men, but the elements of mathematical calculation of moving accuracy, of naval strategy enter into every movement. One tactical mistake may destroy the miniature United States fleet. To err on the game board is serious business for it means that the main charge might do the same were he engaged in a life and death struggle.

Then make the board play more realistic, the intricate problem suggested by the board are transferred to commanders of the big dreadnoughts. There, these ideas are put into actual practice when maneuvers are possible.

Problems suggested by the naval encounters of the European war have been transferred to the game board so that America's strategists may benefit from the spectacular feats of British and German vessels alike.

And the army, too, works out maneuvers along the same line. Both of the military colleges develop officers in all the "tricks of the trade." For instance, these colleges have developed—in theory at least—that a battleship from Europe might approach America's shores, halt at a distance of fully 600 miles from New York, and then send out over the waves an air-raft loaded with bombs to drop on America's metropolis.

In these colleges officers of both services are given the benefit of a world training in strategy. They are taught to go the other fellow one better. And the training is invaluable, officials contend. Rear Admiral Fiske is authority for the statement that Germany's war planning is responsible for the remarkable escape of the German vessels from Kiro Chau and their subsequent sailing into Chilean waters where they sank two vessels larger than themselves.

Such an escape, he fully believes, was developed by the wonderful strategists—war planners of the German empire—long before the war broke out. Then, too, he believes that superior skill was responsible for the German victory against two larger vessels—a feat unparalleled in naval annals.

An American has taken a leaf from Germany's book. She has laid her plans carefully and thoroughly, and if war comes, no more can be made by an enemy which is not already anticipated in those secret papers that repose under lock and key in the gray granite building of the war and navy branches.

Apurpose of the discussion of national security, much comment has been aroused by the proposal to shut off exportation of privately manufactured munition of war after 1920. A bill introduced by Rep. Cresser of Ohio proposes such a move. If it is enacted into law, America can have the assurance that "Made in America" instruments of death will never be turned against this nation. Cresser likewise proposes that the government extend its activities to manufacture of its own ammunition. That the government has been "gonged" in times past by manufacturers of certain lines is the very plain intimation of Sec. Daniels, who himself stands for such government ownership.

Richmond and Baltimore Protest Over Location of Federal Reserve Bank Before Board

PROMINENT MEN APPEAR

Has Authority to Re-District Any Time and Several Changes Are Expected Soon

(By United Press.)

Washington, Jan. 6.—Rival claims of Richmond, Va., and Baltimore, Md., for financial and commercial supremacy were aired here today. Hearings were begun by the federal reserve board up on the protest of Baltimore against the location of the regional reserve bank at Richmond instead of Baltimore. Failing to win out in a fight with Richmond to have the regional bank located at Baltimore, interests of the latter city request, as one alternative, that Baltimore be included in the Philadelphia instead of the Richmond banking district.

Other protests of geographical divisions of the new banking system were heard by the board later. The regional banks were assigned by the "organization committee" before the board was appointed. The board has authority to re-district and change banking districts at any time. As secretary of the Treasury McAdoo and Comptroller of Currency John Skelton Williams were members of the organization committee making the original selections and are now members of the board, it is thought that important changes in the present geographical make-up of the new system are doubtful.

Prominent bankers and business men of Baltimore and Richmond appeared today. They filed reams of documents pro and con. The oral arguments today, however, were the first held by the new board.

JACKSON DAY OBSERVANCE

Terre Haute Indictments or Boom
For Re-Election is What Puzzles The Politicians.

Relative to the recently announced visit of President Wilson to Indiana, Robert G. Tucker, writing from Indianapolis has the following to say:

Whether President Wilson is coming here next Friday to launch his candidacy for re-nomination in 1916 or to admonish the Democrats that they can't with reason expect victory in the campaign two years hence unless the legislature carries out the platform pledges and the party purges itself completely of the gangs that have infested Terre Haute and other large cities in a source of speculation among the faithful.

The latter don't like to go so far as to say that the President has wished himself on to the Democrats of Indiana as a Jackson Day attraction, yet most of them seem unable to get a clear understanding of how it happened that the President suddenly took it into his mind to decide to honor this city and state with a visit on a day when the headlines among the big speakers are at a premium.

The party leaders here knew nothing of the proposed trip of the President until Dick Miller, president of the Indiana Democratic club received a telegram from Senator John W. Kern stating that the President would speak here on Jackson Day if a meeting could be arranged. Miller called up some of the Democratic brethren to give them the news and probably to find out if they had any information as to what was back of the Kern telegram.

He discovered very quickly that the higher-ups who usually have to do with the arrangements of Jackson Day celebrations had not extended an invitation to the President.

In fact, the Kern telegram contained the suggestion that Miller get in touch immediately with Governor Ralston, National Committeeman Taggart for a meeting and a banquet. Miller started the machinery and informed Senator Kern accordingly, whereupon a statement was given out at Washington that the President had accepted an invitation to speak here on Jackson Day, but that he would not be able to remain for a banquet at night.

Many of the party workers jumped immediately to the conclusion that the President and Senator Kern were concerned about the situation in Indiana growing out of the recent indictments of members of the last legislature on fraud charges, of which they were cleared, and the indictment resulting in the wholesale arrests for election law violators at Terre Haute.

Bonepicking.
Mrs. Biggs—So the Daddingtons are quarreling again? Mrs. Monty—Yes; their latest quarrel was about madam's pet dog and the expense of feeding it. Mrs. Biggs—Great Scott! They have bones of contention enough to feed a dozen dogs!

Orchestra is a Greek and Latin term signifying the space in the theaters of the ancients between the stage and the audience where the chorus and dancers assembled.

WINS FIRST PIG CONTEST IN STATE

Terrel Ham, Nephew of Mr. and
Mrs. W. O. Feudner of This City,
Victor in New Kind of Event.

Seventeen-Year-Old Boy Awarded
Trip to Skort Course and Show
For Raising Best Hogs.

Terrel Ham, age seventeen years, of Markleville, Ind., nephew of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Feudner of this city, won the first pig culb contest ever held in Indiana. The Indianapolis News printed a picture of the boy standing in his hog lot with his two prize-winning Hampshires.

The contest, which was made possible through the generosity of Benjamin Keach, cashier of the Markleville bank, actively supported by the Madison county agricultural agent, W. R. Butler, was participated in by boys living in the vicinity of Markleville.

Terrel Ham finished with a score of eighty-three. The pigs fed by him were Hampshires and the gains of 192 pounds on one and 186 pounds on the other were made from a ration consisting of oats, corn, shorts, rye and milk, fed at different stages of the experiment.

Mr. Keach offered three prizes to be decided on a basis of cost of gain, date of gain and composition, which should include the records of feed and weights. The first prize was to include all expenses for the short course at Purdue university, January 11 to 15. The second prize was to include the expenses for a three-day visit to the International stock show at Chicago. As this show was not held because of the foot and mouth disease, a certificate entitling the boy to attend the show next winter was substituted. The third prize was a pure bred pig. In addition to these prizes offered by Mr. Keach, each boy received a pure-bred pig from Mr. Butler.

This contest opened last April with seven boys—three were substituted. Each boy selected two pigs, usually from his father's herd, and agreed to take care of the pigs and keep careful records of the feed and weights of the animals at given times. When the boys' reports had been made, they, with their fathers and others interested in the outcome, were invited by Mr. Keach to a supper.

After the tables were cleared, lantern slide showing different stages of the feeding experiment and other views were exhibited by Mr. Butler. In his speech, he emphasized the important place of the hog on the American farm and its economic value to the farmer. F. M. Shanklin, of Purdue university, who has charge of the organization of pig clubs, complimented the boys on the achievement of pioneer work, and told them of the prospects of other clubs. At the close of his speech, Mr. Shanklin awarded the prizes.

Facts About Furs.
The costliest sable is the Yakutsk or Russian skin that runs "silvery"—that has, in other words, a number of equally distributed white or silvery hairs among the soft and silky brown ones. The black silver fox is most valuable when there is no silver in it—when it is a pure rich black throughout. Ermine, contrary to the general belief, cleans well and is an exceedingly durable fur. Sea otter skins measure 48 by 24 inches. The best color is a dark bluish brown, almost black. Fisher is a large marten found in Canada and the northern United States. The skin measures 30 by 12 inches.

Hymn 333.
A youth named Harry Jordan sat at an examination at one of the eastern colleges. When he learned the result he telegraphed to his people: "Hymn 333, verse 5, last two lines. Harry."
The anxious father turned to his hymn book and read the comforting couplet: "Sorrow vanquished, labor ended, Jordan, passed."—Exchange.

partment in good shape for the coming year.

The yearly report of Superintendent Mahin was ready but because of the late hour it was postponed until the next meeting. The report of the superintendent shows that the water and light plant was operated at a less cost than the year before. A saving of $2,000 was made in coal alone during the year.

The council met Monday night as the city board of finance and named the depositories for the city's money during the year 1915. The funds were divided as follows: Rush County National bank, 32½ per cent; Rushville National bank, 28½ per cent; Peoples National bank, 20 per cent; Peoples Loan and Trust company, 10 per cent; Farmers Trust company, 9 per cent.

A Singular Marriage Feast.
Polynesia is probably the only place in the world where the marriage feast takes place without the presence of the bridegroom. For some unexplained reason the young man is "sent into the bush" when the bride becomes a member of his family, and he invariably remains there during the subsequent festivities. It is only when the guests have departed and the girl is left alone with her parents that messengers are dispatched for him.

Beeswax.
To make beeswax place comb in a coarse muslin bag and put a small stone to weight the contents; put in kettle, cover with water and boil. The wax comes to the top of the water, and the sediment remains in the bottom of the kettle. Remove wax when cold.

Just a Question.
"Well," said father impatiently, "what is it now?"
"There's something I want to know, father, before I read any more. Will you tell me, please, if a yawning chasm is the same thing exactly as a sleepy hollow?"—London Telegraph.
